

Abdulaziz Saleh Al-Jasser

Position: Main Partner

Abdulaziz is the main partner of Saudi Group for Accounting and Auditing alongside Dakheel Al-Dakheel. They established the company in 1982, and Abdulaziz oversees the direction and supervision of over 70 auditors and professional advisors. He brings extensive expertise in auditing, consulting, and taxation matters.

Abdulaziz has undertaken a variety of governmental and commercial engagements, including advising on business practices and compliance in the Kingdom of Saudi Arabia. His roles have encompassed government projects, establishment of financial regulations for the public sector, accounting and auditing, tax disputes and operations, compliance arrangements for business sectors and family-owned companies, as well as restructuring initiatives.

Abdulaziz has held various positions and roles with Arthur Andersen in the United States, where he was a key member of important companies at the time. He also worked at the Industrial Development Fund in 1977 as Chief Accountant in Financial Management. Abdulaziz has overseen numerous large, medium, and small companies across diverse sectors including retail, information technology, construction, and services. His work has involved various complex accounting matters including corporate liquidation, financial fraud, and bankruptcy avoidance settlements. Abdulaziz's experience includes advising multinational corporations and large family-owned businesses in Saudi Arabia on accounting aspects of crisis management, internal auditing, risk management, strategic planning, and business sustainability.

Abdulaziz is the founding leader of Saudi Group for Accounting and Auditing, overseeing a company with over 40 years of experience in accounting, taxation, and consulting services both locally and internationally.
